Meet Robert Krumm

Author of Wauseon

Robert Krumm is a native of Ohio and developed an interest in history through many trips to historic sites taken as a youngster growing up in Canton. Krumm's ancestors first settled in the Columbus area in 1832, and included farmers, engineers, a watch maker, an iron works owner, a postmaster, and career military officers serving in every war and conflict since the Civil War.

Krumm traveled to Missoula, Montana, in pursuit of a degree in forestry, but changed his field of study to journalism. He served as editor and publisher of newspapers in Wyoming and South Dakota before relocating to Wauseon in 1990. In Wauseon, he worked as a general manager and publisher for the Fulton County Expositor before retiring in 2012. He is the recipient of numerous state press association and national awards for reporting, photography, column, and editorial writing.

Krumm served two terms as president of the Buckeye Press Association, Chairman of the Ohio Newspaper Association's weekly newspaper committee, Rotary Club president, president of the Barney Oldfield Transportation Museum committee, a board member of the Fulton County Historical Society and Wauseon's Union Cemetery, and myriad church activities. In 2004, he was honored with Rotary International's Paul Harris Fellowship.

In 2006, Krumm released a collection of his newspaper columns, "Crumbs from the Cracker Barrel," published by Gazette Publishing Co., and he is currently working on an adventure novel, which takes place in five foreign countries and the West.

When not writing, Krumm enjoys woodworking, photography, and traveling with his wife, Sharon.

What lasting impact do you hope your book will leave?

The author hopes that his work will inspire readers to learn more about their local history, the role it plays in the present, and the importance of preserving historical artifacts.
